Unless these loans are extended Germany's financial resources will be put to a severe tax when they fall due. In the stock market today business fell off sharply. Something on Leach Cross. New York, Dec. 20.—Knockout Brown and Leach Cross fought hard and fast for ten rounds at the Empire A, C, tonight, and it was the opinion of those about the ring that Brown won on points. Though a hard left by Cross raised a lump over Brown's right eve in the second round, Brown had the better of the exchanges. Another hard left in the fourth caused the damaged eye to bleed. In the sixth round Cross stalled and appeared to be staggering, but in the following round he snapped over a quick right to Brown's jaw, which sent the boy back to the ropes. The final round ended with Brown showering blows on Cross, and just be-fore the bell he staggered his opponent with a hard right.

Cross-Country Good for Runners. Opinions differ as to whether crosscountry running is beneficial to men

Many instances can be given to illustrate the advantages that some track almost as great at the half-mile distance, is an example of what cross

GAINOR'S INJURY

LOST FLAG TO DETROIT. Real Reason Why Detroit Was Not Top Notchers, Says Cobb.

Top Notchers, Says Cobb.

The great Ty Cobb, while playing Pittsburg on his present theatrical venture, recently regaled Smoky City rews readers by a little inside dope as to just why Detroit didn't win that littl pennant. Cobb was especially emphatic in his claims that Jennings was the last man to blame for the clowing. A writer of the Sperting News gives the following views of Tyrus on the matter:

"You have probably heard Jennings blamed for the poor showing made by the Tigers last season," said Ty, "but I want to set him right before the world. Jennings was not in the least to blame for the finish of the Detroit team. Davy Jones, in a series of articles given to an eastern paper early in the fall, said that Jennings had not worked his pitchers properly, and that in the fall, said that Jennings had not worked his pitchers properly, and that he was wholly to bleme for the failure of the Detroiters to win the American league pennant. Now, it seems to me bad grace on the part of Jones to knock Hughey in any way, for you can take it from me that no member of the Detroit outfit was ever more royally treated by the manager than was Jones. Why to be candid, Jennings sent Matty McIntyre to the White Sox just so that Davy could have a free

Jennings is one of the grandest fig-

"Jennings is one of the grandest figures in the realm of baseball today, and no one whe really knows him can truthfully say one word against him. Officeurse, I have never had many employers in baseball, but I never want to work for a better man than Hughey, he knows exactly how to treat his men and the tosser who really tries to do his work will never have any ground for complaint on the way he is handled by Jennings. For a team of the strength of the Tigers we pulled some pretty raw stuff on occusions last season, yet there never was a time when Jennings forgot to be the gentleman with all of us. Every manager who is ambittous is more or less of a hard loser, but Hughey can see defeat staring him in the face with much better grace than many of his colleagues.

"As a matter of fact, the Detroit team lost out last season because Gainor was hurt. We were going finely when he met with his serious accident. We had won 25 games and lost the letter be the control of the co believe but for that time, and I actually believe but for that one thing the Athletics would never have figured in the world's championship series with the New York Glants. Galnor was a veritable tower of strength at first tase. When he was hurt Hughey was tase. When he was hurt Huchey was compelled to make a switch. Delahanty was sent to the initial sack, a position, with which he was not at all familiar. He did his best, but the change knocked the confidence of many of the players in the head, and our machine was badly crippled. Some of the boys blayed ahead as if nothing had ever happened, but others gave way in despair, and we lost out. That is all there was to it, and Jennings should not be held responsible."

NOISES ABOUT GARAGES. Carelessness of Chauffeurs Often the Cause of Disturbances.

The undoubted ill favor in which arages are held in residential districts due in large measure to causes that an be removed, in most cases, by the exercise of authority and a little in-genuity on the part of the garage management, says the Motor World garage entrance. Rather than take the trouble to change the low goar the chauffeur opens his exhaust to the atmosphere in order to realize the added power which he fancies "cutting out" gives to his motor; and the fusillate that follows is second only to the clamor of the horn in its nerve racking or sleep dispelling power.

Although existing conditions do not seem to bear out the statement, there are good reasons why garage proprietors should not permit such a state of affairs to exist. The good will of neighboring residents is assuredly of value, for many are potential, if not actual, customers, and prejudice, easily aroused, is difficult to aliay. Moreover, organized opposition to a public nuisance can make much trouble, even to the extent of causing arrests or forcing the removal of the offending establishment in case of persistent misdeeds. And this born blowing nuisance is so necessary and so prevaent that the wonder is that garage where will suffer it to continue when it holds promise of so much trouble for themselves, when it so easily may
